

WISDOM WALK

PERU

A JOURNEY INTO DEEP LISTENING

27 DECEMBER 2026 - 09 JANUARY 2027

SACRED VALLEY
AUSANGATE
AMAZONIA

www.wisdomwalk.earth

Peru is a land that asks us to listen.

For fourteen days, we will journey from the Sacred Valley into the high mountains of Ausangate and descend from the Andes into the Amazon rainforest.

Along the way, we will walk through ancient landscapes, sit in ceremony, move, meditate, rest and gather around the table. We will spend time with traditions that have grown from a relationship with these lands, while making space to notice our own relationship with body, nature and one another.

This is a journey through changing landscapes, but also an invitation to change the way we travel through them.

PERU

ANDES MOUNTAINS, SACRED VALLEY, PISAC

We begin in the Sacred Valley, making our home in Pisac for the first chapter of our journey. Here, we enter a week-long medicine retreat, held through plant medicine ceremonies, Andean rituals, movement, meditation and time for integration.

Alongside the retreat, we spend time in Pisac, Moray and Maras, meeting the landscapes and living traditions of the Andes while allowing enough space for each experience to unfold and settle.

AUSANGATE, PACCHANTA, SEVEN LAKES

From the valley, we travel higher into the Andes toward Ausangate. We reach the community of Pacchanta and continue toward the Seven Lakes, moving through a landscape of glaciers, high altitude lagoons and wide mountain horizons.

This is the highest and most physically adventurous chapter of our journey.

AMAZONIA, PUERTO MOLDONADO, MADRE DE DIOS

From the high Andes, we begin our descent toward Amazonia. After reaching Puerto Maldonado, we continue by boat into the rainforest and settle into an entirely different ecosystem and rhythm. Our days here take us deeper into the forest, including Sandoval Lake, before we return to Cusco for our final circle.

AMAZONIA

PROGRAM

DAY 1 - 27.12 / Pisac

Arriving in the Sacred Valley

We arrive in the Sacred Valley, surrounded by mountains that will hold the first chapter of our journey. Pisac becomes our home for the coming days.

We wander through the market, arrive in our bodies, meet one another and gather for our first circle. As evening falls, cacao and the sound of the gong open the space for what is to come.

DAY 2 - 28.12 / Pisac

An Offering to the Land

Our first morning takes us into the ancient landscape of Pisac.

Here, we are introduced to Despacho, an Andean ceremony of offering and reciprocity, and to Mancapacha. Rather than simply learning about these traditions, we meet them where they belong: among the mountains, in relationship with the land.

The medicine retreat has begun.

DAY 3 - 29.12 / Pisac

Salt, Stone & Medicine

We move through landscapes shaped by both human hands and the elements: the circular terraces of Moray and the thousands of salt pools cascading down the mountainside at Maras. Back in Pisac, attention turns inward. Through somatic practice we prepare the body, then enter our first plant medicine ceremony as night falls over the valley.

SACRED VALLEY

DAY 4 - 30.12 / Pisac

Listening to What Opens

Morning arrives slowly. We rest, move, share and give the experience room to settle into the body. As darkness returns to the valley, we gather for our second plant medicine ceremony.

DAY 5 - 31.12 / Pisac

Between Years

The last day of the year finds us in the Sacred Valley. After the intensity of the previous days, there is space to receive: rest, sauna, massage and practices that support the body and nervous system.

And then, together, we cross a threshold. We meet the turning of the year not with a countdown, but with ceremony, intention and the mountains around us.

DAY 6 - 01.01 / Kinsa Cocha

The First Day

The first morning of the year takes us higher into the mountains.

At Kinsa Cocha, three high-altitude lakes rest between vast slopes and open sky. Here we spend the day in plant medicine ceremony, walking slowly through a landscape where water, stone and mountain seem to speak their own language.

A different way to begin a year.

CEREMONY

DAY 7 - 02.01 / Sacred Valley

Water Finds Its Way

After days of ceremony, we follow water.

We travel to Sirenachayoc, walking toward the waterfall and spending time with Raul before returning to Pisac. The day is spacious, giving us room to move, speak and begin gathering the many threads of the week.

Our medicine retreat slowly comes toward its closing.

DAY 8 - 03.01 / Sacred Valley

A Day Between Worlds

Today the path divides. Some may rise before dawn and make their way toward Machu Picchu. Others may choose a quiet day, wander, rest or follow their own curiosity. By evening, we find one another again. We gather around the table before leaving the valley behind.

DAY 9 - 04.01 / Ausangate

Where the Air Gets Thin

The road carries us deeper into the Andes, toward Ausangate.

From Pacchanta, we continue into the mountains, on foot and horseback, following a trail between the Seven Lakes. Turquoise water, glaciers, mineral colours and enormous skies accompany us as the familiar scale of the world begins to disappear.

Tonight, the mountains are our horizon.

DAY 10 - 05.01 / Puerto Maldonado

The Great Descent

We wake in the high Andes and begin one of the most extraordinary transitions of the journey. Crossing a mountain pass at around 4,750 metres, we begin to descend. The air grows warmer. Vegetation returns. Mountain gives way to cloud forest, cloud forest to tropical abundance. Hours later, we arrive in Puerto Maldonado. In a single day, we travel from the roof of the Andes toward Amazonia.

DAY 11 - 06.01 / Amazonia

Into the Green

We step into a boat and travel deeper into the rainforest, leaving the city behind as the forest closes around the water. After settling into our home, there is little to do but arrive. Listen. Notice the humidity on the skin, unfamiliar sounds in the canopy, the density of life around us. Later, we take our first walk into the forest.

DAY 12 - 07.01 / Amazonia

A World Alive

We wake inside one of the most biodiverse landscapes on Earth. Our path leads toward Sandoval Lake, moving on foot and by water through the rainforest. The pace here is different. Attention naturally widens: movement in the trees, reflections on the water, sounds whose source we may never see. For a while, we become visitors in a world that is very much alive without us.

AUSANGATE

DAY 13 - 08.01 / Cusco

Carrying the Forest Back

One last morning among the trees before we leave Amazonia and fly back toward Cusco.

After almost two weeks of movement, ceremony, mountains and forest, the journey begins to fold inward. There is time to rest, wander and notice what feels different from the person who arrived fourteen days ago.

DAY 14 - 09.01 / Cusco

Until the Next Walk

Last day in the City. Last meeting of ours.

Not to summarize fourteen days or turn them into a conclusion, but simply to meet one another once more before the paths separate.

Then bags close, flights leave, and the journey continues in different directions.

See you on the way.

THE PEOPLE WE WALK WITH

Selin & Jean

Wisdom Keepers & Ceremony Guides

Selin and Jean’s paths have taken them across different lands and traditions before eventually bringing them both to Peru.

Selin’s relationship with Peru began in 2005 with a solo journey that would later change the course of her life. Leaving behind an academic path in mathematics, she made the Sacred Valley her home, where for more than twelve years she has been learning from Indigenous communities, local healers and their traditions, and holding spaces for healing and ceremony herself for the past nine years.

Jean’s path has unfolded over several decades across Africa, Mexico and Peru, where he has lived for the past sixteen years. For fourteen years, he has guided more than 700 ceremonies and retreats internationally. A multi-instrumentalist, songwriter and instrument maker, music is deeply woven into the spaces he holds.

Together, Selin and Jean will hold the ceremonial space during our medicine retreat in the Sacred Valley, accompanying us through one of the most intimate chapters of our journey.

Raul & Salemina

Q’eros & Wisdom Keepers

Raul and Salemina are Peruvian Andean Q’eros, carrying a living relationship with the traditions, wisdom and lands of their community. With generosity and humility, they share practices and teachings that have been passed through generations, rooted in reciprocity, ceremony and a deep relationship with the natural world.

Together with their family, they welcome us into this living tradition with warmth and sincerity. During our time in the Sacred Valley, we will have the opportunity to learn from them, share ceremony and experience the Andean ways of relating to the land that continue to shape their lives

Fiorella

Mancapacha Facilitator

Fiorella is a Peruvian holistic therapist trained in herbalism, Bach flower remedies, and Ayurvedic medicine.

She facilitates Mancapacha, an Andean sweat lodge tradition rooted in ancestral teachings, as well as women’s circles and healing experiences that support personal transformation and connection.

During our time in the Sacred Valley, Fiorella will guide us through a Mancapacha ceremony, inviting us to experience this Andean tradition together.

Merve

Founder of Wisdom Walk Retreat Leader & Embodiment Facilitator

Merve is the founder of Wisdom Walk, creating land-based journeys that weave together embodiment, cultural immersion, and contemplative practice.

With a lifelong relationship to dance and movement, alongside a background in experience design, her work has been shaped by years of learning across different wisdom traditions. From Buddhist meditation in the Himalayas to Tantric traditions in India, Andean cosmology in Peru, she continues to learn directly from the lands and communities that inspire her.

Drawing from movement, meditation, and ritual, Merve creates spaces for people to reconnect with themselves, one another, and the wisdom of the land through direct experience.

In Peru, she will hold the overall journey and guide our embodiment, movement, meditation and integration practices throughout the experience.

THE PEOPLE WE WALK WITH

Gonzalo

Sound Journey

Gonzalo is a musician, sound therapist, researcher, and instrument builder dedicated to the therapeutic use of sound through gongs, singing bowls, didgeridoo, handpan, harmonium, and voice.

He facilitates immersive sound journeys that support meditation, relaxation, and expanded states of awareness.

During our time in the Sacred Valley, Gonzalo will guide us through a sound journey, creating a space for deep listening, rest, and integration through sound.

Arda

Experince Guide

Arda’s relationship with South America and the Andes began in 2010 and has deepened through years of living, exploring and creating journeys across the region. In 2013, he moved to an Indigenous village at 3,000 metres, away from the main tourism routes.

For more than fourteen years, he has been guiding intimate journeys through Vamoss, bringing together deep knowledge of the region, trusted local relationships and thoughtful experiences. Based in the Sacred Valley,

Arda will be our guide on the ground, bringing together the people, places and experiences that shape our journey through Peru while overseeing its local organization and operations.

HOW WE WALK

Along the way, we return to a few simple practices that help us pay attention, listen more closely and stay with what the journey brings.

Presence

Morning meditations and moments of stillness invite us to notice where our attention goes and return to what is here.

Embodiment

Through movement, breath and embodied exploration, we listen beyond the thinking mind and make space for what the body already knows.

Ceremony

Temazcal, plant medicine and cacao ceremonies mark different thresholds of the journey, held with intention and guided by experienced practitioners.

Integration

Circles, reflection and shared conversations give us time to meet what has opened, put experience into words and carry it forward.

YOUR DAYS IN PERU

Accomodation

Our homes change as the landscape changes.
We begin in the Sacred Valley, continue into the high Andes around Ausangate and later travel deep into the Amazon rainforest. Each place has been chosen not simply as somewhere to sleep, but as part of the experience of the land itself.

Sacred Valley, Melissa Wasi x8 • Ausangate, Pacchanta Family Stay x1 • Puerto Maldonado, Wasai Eco Lodge x1 • Amazonia, Corto Maltes x2 • Cusco, Hotel Hacienda x1

YOUR DAYS IN PERU

Food

Our meals are prepared by private chefs, lovely artist couple, using fresh, high-quality ingredients and thoughtfully designed around our dietary needs. Nourishing and delicious, food becomes part of the journey itself: a way to care for the body, gather around the table and experience the richness of the land.
